MR. PARNELL'S POSITION.
He Meant to Have Less Exposure in the O'Shea Case.
[DUBLIN CABLE NEWS SPECIAL.] LONDON, Nov. 18.—Mr. Parnell and the part played by him in the divorce case of O'Shea v. O'Shea is now the topic of the hour, and while on the one hand his power is declared to be over, on the other it is claimed that he has lost nothing in political strength and pure patriotism.
It is stated that the practice of furnishing an advance copy of the Queen's speech to the leader of the Irish party will not be followed this session.
The attitude of the Irish clergy is awaited with great interest, as it is believed to see how bishops and priests can overlook a fault of this character.
There is excellent authority for the statement that it was Mrs. O'Shea's intention to defend the case, but Mr. Parnell's resolute refusal to enter the witness box made it impossible for her to do so.
Mr. Parnell's object was to have as little of the evidence as possible brought before the public, he having kept the fact of his intention not to defend a profound secret, in the hope that when the case was called the counsel for the petitioner would have been satisfied with proving O'Shea's allegations in the briefest and thus avoid exposure.
The Solicitor-General, Sir Edward Clarke, comprehended the wishes of the co-respondent, and, instead of falling into the trap, went into the evidence as fully as he would have done had the charges been disputed.
It is stated that Mr. Parnell now feels relieved that the story of his wrong-doing has been told to the world, as the affair has long clouded his life and hampered his actions.
The worst being now known, he will throw himself into political work for Ireland more vigorous than ever.
The most pronounced action is reported at Edinburgh, where notice has been given in the Town Council of a motion to remove Mr. Par-nell's name from the roll of Burgesses.

TO STAND BY THE TARIFF.
But Only Too Eager to Repudiate President Ben.
[SPECIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD.]
WASHINGTON, Nov. 18.—While squarely acknowledging that the McKinley bill had much to do with the losses of the recent election the Republicans in their counselling have practically decided to stand by the principles of that measure.
It would be too clear a sign of weakness to now, say the party's stronger ones to those others who are inclined even yet to go to the shelter of Blaine's more moderate ideas of protection.
But if the Republicans stick to one course, of their defeat there is another one which they will repudiate without hesitation when it comes to making their nomination. That is, they will repudiate him if he will let them.
This course is President Ben Harrison, and his way to back repudiation will be to withdraw from the race. It is currently understood that this is precisely what he will do, and that he is even now casting about for the most graceful method of doing it.
An Indiana Republican whose name is not given is credited with having told the President frankly and in a most friendly spirit just how the party would regard him and how it happens that so far as securing a re-nomination is concerned, he is "out of it." Totally unknown to the President, and discreetly backed up by one Arthur P.
Cunningham, a Senate Document Room employee, who, goaded on by a crowd of friends to whom he had been retelling his unfavorable opinions of Gen. Harrison, rushed off to tell them to the President himself.
Being well known, he had no difficulty in getting to Secretary Blaine's room, whence he passed to the President's own office, and there he awaited the Executive with such language as probably never before greeted the ears of one of Uncle Sam's Chief Magistrates.
Cunningham was finally stopped and arrested, and he was in Police Court this morning on a charge of "disorderly." There was a good Republican up to the present Administration.
There seems no reason to change the predictions of the last few years, in making the election of the thirty-first Congress is to be short and one that the Forces will not be of the magnitude of the last.
The Farmers' Alliance, with its plans for 1892 and the foothold which it will obtain in the Congress, is disturbing the old status of the Administration not a little, especially the financial end of it.
The Senatorial Alliance has been broken up, and the party is in a state of confusion.
The Senate is a body of men in the 1892 struggle.

Atlantic City Adopts High License.
[SPECIAL.]
ATLANTIC CITY, Nov. 18.—The City Council has voted for high license. The lowest figure for saloon license hereafter will be $200, ranging from that to $800.

Furniture for the Million!
To a young couple about to start housekeeping, the following is a list of the most present worth attractions that persons anywhere in the city. Here may be found furniture and householding of every in-kind and description, and three goods, moreover, on terms of easy credit to all desires to acquire.
It has been rightly said that "Cogan can sell anything," and this is a true statement.
In fact, every article that is a "must" for the household is to be found here, and at a price that is a real bargain.
The first floor of this establishment is entirely devoted to the exhibition of bedroom sets and dining-room furniture. The second story is a show-room for the various kinds of carpets and oilcloths sold by the house. On the floor above are exhibited offering designs in parlor furniture, porcelains, pictures, etc. And the oak trimmings, with plush dresses, being very attractive. The fifth story makes a specialty in its heavy walnut desks and tables.
In the basement are to be found stores and cooking utensils of all sorts and quantities.

SUGGI SMILES WITH GLEE.
His Lecturer Has a Tooth Pulled in His Presence.
Having No Use for Teeth Himself,
It Is Great Sport for the Faster.
A unique incident this morning in the grim, darkened chamber at Koster & Bial's, where Sig. Giovanni Succi is still valiantly performing his monologues, "The Gourmets' Enemy," or, "How I Thrive on Croton and Air," was the slender Italian's giggle, and he was quick to see the cause of his merriment.
It was the extraction of a troublesome tooth, which Prof. Eschschaff, the lecturer, has been bothered with for many days. There are always a couple of youthful disciples of Esch-schaff standing guard over Succi to see that he doesn't get a sniff even of a sandwich. To see these young fellows, however, Prof. Eschschaff appealed for relief.
He was suffering torture and was willing to take chances on having his jaw broken in preference to having the agony prolonged.
A good deal of delay and a painful activity.
The slender Italian's giggle, and he was quick
to see the cause of his merriment.
The latter was a confident young man, and he tackled the job boldly. He snatched away the tooth with a snap, and he was quick to see the cause of his merriment.
Then the youthful tooth-puller began to tug and tug, and he was quick to see the cause of his merriment.
The slender Italian's giggle, and he was quick
to see the cause of his merriment.

JERSEY CITY'S REPEATERS.
Testimony as to Fraud at the Last Election.
Ex-Election Inspector William Van Horn continued his testimony this morning before Judge Appleton and a jury in the Jersey City Court-house in reference to the ballot frauds of last year.
Van Horn testified that he saw James Burns, Thomas Mikulski and Peter J. Cusack.
In cross-examination, Van Horn said he was in the room when he was repeating, because he knew Michael Hennen, who voted three times, twice for James Burns, and once for Mikulski.
Van Horn, who voted under the name of T. C.
Cusack, and one Mikulski, who voted under the name of Cusack.
Peter J. Murphy, of 144 Morris street, testified that he saw James Burns vote eight or nine times towards evening.
He voted pretty lively, skipping over between time to vote in another precinct, a short distance away.

DIED.
BARCKOCK.—Suddenly, Nov. 14, STEPHEN T.
Funeral to-morrow (Wednesday) afternoon at Brooklyn, Conn.

HE TERRORIZED THE LADIES.
A Lunatic Disturbs One of Brooklyn's Swell Boarding Houses.
A well-dressed man named Farrington was a prisoner at the Butler street police station in Brooklyn, this morning. There is a question as to whether he is a lunatic, or a man who has been disturbed by Farrington.
The usual quietude of the Secor House, that fashionable boarding house on the corner of Clinton and Warren streets, Brooklyn, has been somewhat disturbed by Farrington.
About a week ago he applied to Proprietor Weiss for a room, and was taken in. Saturday morning he showed decided signs of insanity, and grew rapidly worse until 1 o'clock this morning, when he was taken to the Butler street police station.
The Secor House has a great many young and married lady boarders. It seems that Farrington was fond of the ladies' society, and one of his chief amusements was to follow them about the house and veil into their rooms.
The women thought that perhaps music would quiet him, and as Farrington had taken up his position in the parlor the piano was kept going all day Sunday.
When one performer became tired she was relieved by another. It is given out by one of the gentlemen boarding at the house that there has been but little sleep in the house since Saturday.
Some of the women went to their rooms, locked and barricaded the doors with all the furniture, and had their meals sent up in a pail attached to a string.
Yesterday Farrington began to grow moody and frequently would give his hand down into the piano and draw out the keys with his fingers.
The household was now thoroughly frightened, and although the police were called upon they said they could do nothing until the Charly Commissioners took action. He was finally taken into custody, however, and locked up by the Butler street police.
Farrington is beautifully supplied with money and dresses very nicely. No one at the house knows anything further about the man.

[SPECIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD.]
YONKERS, Nov. 18.—A cut on the Yonkers street railway was boarded shortly after midnight this morning, by three men on the three cut the brake chain. Then the men jumped off.
The car quickly got beyond the control of the driver, and he unaccompanied and rounded his horses to one side and jumped, while the car tumbled down the hill.
It smashed into the window of John Pierpont's store, smashing the plate glass to fragments and totally wrecking the car. There were no passengers on the car.
About half the strikers returned to work this morning.
